

CSAA News Briefs

Bob Bean Becomes CSAA's 31st President

(CSAA Signals, Oct. 27, 2011)

Bob Bean, vice chairman and director of Alert Alarm of Hawaii, was named president of CSAA during its Annual Meeting. Bean, who takes the helm from Ed Bonifas, vice president of Alarm Detection Systems, is the 31st central monitoring professional to hold this position. He will serve in this capacity for the next two years.

"CSAA is delighted to welcome Bob Bean as the new association president," says CSAA Executive Vice President Steve Doyle. "Alert Alarm is the largest alarm company in Hawaii, and Bob has hosted many Annual Meetings over the years. His experience on the Board and Executive Committee will serve CSAA well during this time of considerable challenges from the AHJ community, and as the industry adapts to the ASAP program and the myriad of other technical and educational challenges."

In addition to serving in various capacities on CSAA's Executive Committee over the years, Bean has been chair of the CSAA Membership Committee, chair of the NRTL Promotion Committee, and co-chair of the CSAA Long Range Planning Committee.

"His long service to this industry and to CSAA will ensure a steady hand at the helm for years to come," notes Doyle.

Other elections to CSAA's Executive Committee include:

- * First Vice President John Lombardi, president, Commercial Instruments and Alarm.
- * Second Vice President Pam Petrow, president, Vector Security.
- * Secretary Jay Huhn, vice president of technology and industry relations, ADT Security Services.
- * Treasurer Ivan Spector, president, Alarme Sentinelle.
- * Immediate Past President Ed Bonifas, vice president, Alarm Detection Systems.

In addition, three CSAA members were appointed as Special Advisors to the Executive Committee:

- * Lou Fiore, AICC chair and president of L.T. Fiore.
- * Peter Lowitt, president of Lowitt Alarms and Security.
- * Ralph Sevinor, president of Wayne Alarm Systems.

Other posts filled on CSAA's Board of Directors for two-year terms include:

- * Daniel Demers, president and CEO of Reliance Protection Security Services.
- * Joe Nuccio, CEO of Alarm Security Group.
- * Don Young, chief information officer for Protection One.